'Cross-Canada Hit Parade star Wally Koster arrived in Winnipeg on July 6 to play the leading male role in the musical Guys and Dolls for a week (July 20-29) at Winnipeg's outdoor theatre, Rainbow Stage.

The engagement in Winnipeg will bring back many memories of the early days of his career to Wally—days when he divided his time between being a semi-professional entertainer and a semi-professional athlete.

It was in Winnipeg, his home town, that Wally, at the age of 15, got his first break in what turned out to be his career. For ten weeks he sang with Joe DeCourcy's band at The Cave, a nightclub, wearing an oversized blue suit that belonged to his brother, and sometimes wearing patches on his face—acquired in a hockey game earlier the same day.

A CBC radio producer heard Wally at The Cave and hired him to replace George Murray, another Winnipegger who had left for the east, on Woodhouse and Hawkins, a network comedy show. He worked on the show with Albert Pratz (now concertmaster of the CBC Symphony) and Geoffrey Waddington (now director of music for CBC).

The following summer Wally went to Jasper as vocalist with the DeCourcy band. Here he learned to play both golf and the trombone. He is still "a golf addict of the worst type," and he still accepts an occasional engagement as trombonist in Toronto dance bands. During the war Wally discovered that his hockey and football injuries had rendered him unfit for active service, and he spent his entire service career—until 1945—playing the trombone in the Army band in Winnipeg.

After the war Wally went to Toronto at the invitation of bandleader Ellis McLintock, and soon he was singing professionally again. In 1949 he sang and chatted with Terry Dale on The Happy Motor-ing Show which featured Howard Cable's orchestra and was produced by Jackie Rae. It was Rae who developed Wally's individual vocal style through many months of coaching.

In 1952 Wally joined Mr. Show-business, also produced by Jackie Rae, and appeared as a regular on Down Dairy Lane, a 15-minute radio show featuring Wally, a girl trio and an orchestra conducted by Morris Surdin.

When television arrived Wally became one of Toronto's first TV stars. In 1953 he joined Cue for Music, a variety show which starred Pat Patterson and Marilyn Kent. Its producer, Don Brown, found Wally to have an amazing ability for memorizing lyrics, a free-and-easy style, and "a big voice with tremendous quality."

The co-star (with Joyce Hahn) of 'Cross-Canada Hit Parade, has not abandoned other media since the advent of TV. He has made several recordings, performed at the Canadian National Exhibition, and toured Canada with Mart Kenney's band.

Wally says he would be lost without the help of his wife, Winnipeg-born Myra (née Symes), his business manager, to whom he gives a large share of the credit for his arrival as one of Canada's top ballad singers.

In a Maclean's Magazine profile, June Callwood described Wally's face as "a battered testimonial that he was once a lineman, a lacrosse player and a defenseman in a tough hockey league."

"His features," she said, "appear to have been lovingly arranged with a sledgehammer, an act of fate and fists, but no real drawback in a profession overcrowded with weakly handsome men."

Even if he cannot count on the weather during his home-town engagement at the outdoor theatre

"The Show That Jack Built"—from Winnipeg.

THE FIRST TIME the reigning monarch received the "rent" due to him under the terms of the 1670 charter of the Company of Adventurers Trading Into Hudson Bay (Hudson's Bay Company) was in 1939, during the visit of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth (now the Queen Mother) to Canada. Mr. Ashley Cooper, then governor of the company, is shown above, reading the charter prior to the presentation, which took place at the Old Fort Garry Gate in downtown Winnipeg. Among those on the platform, besides King George and Queen Elizabeth, are Hon. W. J. Tupper, lieutenant-governor; John Queen, mayor of Winnipeg; and Hon. John Bracken, premier of Manitoba.

An Historic Royal Ceremony

The Queen's Rent

ON WINNIPEG'S venerable Main Street, once a prairie trail leading to Fort Garry and the fork of the Red and Assiniboine Rivers, J. B. Hawkins and Son, taxidermists, have been busy preparing two Canadian Elk heads.

And in the fur department of the Hudson's Bay Company on Dorchester Street in Montreal, Mr. A. Cleven and his assistants have been carefully working over two black beaver pelts.

The pelts and the heads are for presentation—or more accurately, for payment—to Her Majesty the Queen during her visit to Winnipeg on July 24. The ceremony will be carried on the national radio networks of the CBC.

Nearly all of Western Canada—all of that part which drains into Hudson Bay—was once the property of the Hudson's Bay Company, granted to it for fur trading by a royal charter in 1670, when Charles II was king. And specifically set forth in that charter is the following:

... in free and common Socage and not in Capite or by Knight's Service, yielding and Paying yearly to us our heires and Successors for the same, two Elkes and two Black Beavers whensoever and as often as wee our heires and successors shall happen to enter into the said Countryes, Territoryes and Regions hereby granted. (Please turn to page 9)

SYLVIA FONTIJN, secretary to the program director, CBMT, Montreal, displays the two black beaver pelts that will be presented to H.M. the Queen.

In the "Close-Up" Corner

Templeton vs. Waugh

BRITISH novelist Evelyn Waugh does not like interviewers. For Close-Up interviewer Charles Templeton the dislike is mutual.

"He's the only person I ever interviewed who made me mad," said Templeton recently. "Interviewers shouldn't get mad, of course. I hope it doesn't show in the film—but I'm afraid it's going to."

Waugh himself does not deny the qualities which Templeton disliked. "His books are often rude and arrogant," says the writer of a Waugh profile in the London Observer, "and he himself delights in these qualities."

In his semi-biographical book The Ordeal of Gilbert Pinfold Waugh describes the hero (admittedly based on himself) as having "the eyes of a drill sergeant inspecting the awkward squad, bulging with a wrath that was half-facetious, and with half-simulated incredulity; like a drill sergeant he was absurd to many but to some rather formidable . . .; the part for which he cast himself was a combination of eccentric don and testy colonel . . ."

First warning of dangers ahead came for Close-Up when Waugh replied to the request for an interview. "He agreed," said Templeton, "but warned us that if we turned his house into 'a beer garden' as a previous film crew allegedly did, we would have to pay for any damage. Then during the interview he just refused to co-operate, cutting the ground from under my feet with every question. It was like trying to climb a wall with each handhold crumbling when I put weight on it — I just couldn't get off the ground."

"Throughout the interview," Templeton went on, "he kept insisting I hadn't read his books though of course I had done so, both in my general reading and, four of them, specially for the interview. Once I asked him why, if he hated interviewers, he consented to be interviewed for Close-Up. He gave a one-word answer: 'Money.'"

If Waugh can accept charges of arrogance with equanimity, he has other chinks in his armour. He sued the Daily Express and its book critic Miss Nancy Spain (and won £2,000) some time ago for alleged defamation. The article in question erroneously implied, among other things, that the novels of his brother Alec outsold his, leaving him "embittered."

Evelyn Waugh was born in Hampstead in England in 1903. His first book, Decline and Fall, written in 1928, was an immediate success. There followed nine years of wandering in Europe, the Near East, the Arctic, and tropical America. During the war he served with the British forces, including the British military mission dropped into Yugoslavia by parachute. He now lives in England with his wife and six children; one story has a notice on his housegate saying, "No admittance on business."

Waugh has an intense admiration for physical courage (of which he has plenty) and for blue blood (of which he has none). Both are tied in with that romanticism which makes him hate the 20th century. But if he is a snob about blood, he makes high demands on his aristocracy. It is said that on one occasion he turned a visiting grane dame away from his door because she had not brought her maid.

A powerful influence in Waugh's life is Roman Catholicism to which he is a convert. This has to some extent turned him from his early comic and satiric writing to something more serious. Some critics see this as a growth in stature; others see the loss of a truly great comic writer: says a Times Literary Supplement review, critics have "insisted on treating any reference to Eternity, any evidence of cosmic disquiet, as evidence of profundity," with the implication the evidence is too slight.

However Waugh's novels may stand up to time, he has had great influence on young novelists. The same review finishes by saying, "After all, many years ago, he invented the contemporary novel."

PROGRAM NOTES

JULY 19

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information.

Country Calendar

This week—the last of three programs on the work of the faculties of agriculture at the three prairie universities. Al Richardson, CBC farm commentator for Alberta, will interview Dean C. F. Bentley on the work and organization of his faculty and go on a tour of the faculty's various divisions. Country Calendar's regular gardening specialist, Stan Westaway, will discuss the university's work in horticulture. (CBC Winnipeg film).

Astronomy Today

With Dr. F. A. Kaempffer, professor of physics at the university of British Columbia.

CBWT—Radio-Canada Vous Invite

Last program of the current series with singing host Yoland Guérard. This week's guests—The Staneks (acrobats) and singers Varel and Bailly with the Chanteurs de Paris. (CBC Montreal film).

Holiday Edition

Host John Clark introduces films about tropical fish, a boy's camp in Algonquin Park, the concluding episode of Man in the Moon, and a cartoon entitled King Neptune.

CBWT—Premiere

"Martine," by Jean-Jacques Bernard, adapted by Gérald Tassé. A young man just returned from the Orient falls in love with a pretty peasant girl called Martine. But when his former girlfriend arrives Julien realizes that Martine is just a flirt. (CBC Montreal film).

Newsmagazine

Norman DePoe reports on highlights of the week's news. From Ottawa.

Bob Cummings Show

Comedy series starring Bob Cummings as a bachelor photographer. This week—"Bob and Harvey Get Ambushed." Harvey's wife Ruthie is outraged when Bob and her husband return from a hunting trip in the company of two beautiful models.

Father Knows Best

Comedy series starring Robert Young and Jane Wyatt. This week—"Poor Old Dad." When Jim Anderson is forced to cancel a hunting trip because Margaret has to visit her aunt, Bud becomes convinced that his father is trapped by marriage.

December Bride

Comedy series starring Spring Byington. This week movie star Rory

Calhoun helps Lily convince a young lad that the life of a scientist is more exciting and rewarding than the life of a cowboy.

Rhapsody

Songs and dances of many lands with Jan Rubes, Ivan Romanoff and his chorus and orchestra, and guest artists. This week—music and dances from Spain. This week's guests are dancer Ray Moller, Carmen Cortez, and Brydon Paige; singer Isabelita Alonson; Spanish flamenco singer Amelia Perez, and flamenco guitarist Juan Garcia de la Mata. Eric Till, producer. From Toronto.

Ed Sullivan Show

Tonight's program was filmed in Italy, and includes highlights of Gian-Carlo Menotti's "Festival of Two Worlds," currently in progress there. Guests include actor John Gielgud (in Shakespeare's "Ages of Man"), the Louis Armstrong Band (without Armstrong), contralto Eileen Farrell, dancers Nora Kaye and Scott Douglas in a "Romeo and Juliet" excerpt, singer Ornelle Vavone, and Italy's famous Walton's Puppets. The program will also include an excerpt from Jerome Robbins' "Ballet U.S.A." and John Butler's modern dance, "Five Senses."

World's Stage

True drama series introduced by Dr. Frank Baxter. This week—"Here Lies Francois' Gold." When a crook is drafted into the French army in 1939, he finds a secret tunnel leading to the vaults of the Bank of France and decides to help himself to some of the gold which is stored there.

Playhouse U.K.

This week—"Playboy of the Western World," a Granada production of J.M. Synge's high comedy, with an all-Irish cast of 12 directed by Clifford Owen. The play is about Christy Mahon, a lad who thinks he has killed his "da" (father) and finds himself hailed as a hero in the small Mayo community which takes him in on his flight from home. The arrival of old Mahon, still very much alive, leads to a rich variety of comic episodes in which Christy's second attack on his father points the moral that "a strange man is a marvel, with his mighty talk" but that "there's a great gap between a gallous story and a dirty deed." (See story this page).

CAST

Donal Donnelly	Christy Mahon
Joan O'Hara	Pegeen Flaherty
Joseph Temelty	Michael Flaherty
Anna Manahan	Widow Quin

Sunday on "Long Shot"

A Macabre Comic —Jonathan Winters

Comedian Jonathan Winters is special guest this Sunday night on Long Shot, the new program of comedy and comment which Close-Up's Ross McLean produces.

This is Winters' first TV appearance since his recent breakdown in health. Jonathan Winter's habit of mimicry was with him from his early childhood in Dayton, Ohio. He constantly imitated his family visitors and carried the habit with him into the Marines (with whom he saw action in the Pacific), imitating the brass.

After the war he enrolled in the Dayton Art Institute where he trained in cartoon drawing, and also got married. When a local amateur show took place in town, Winters' wife suggested he enter—and win the woman's watch that came as first prize. He did just that. This led to a job as disc jockey with a local radio station. He included interviews in the program, and when he had no one to interview he went ahead and interviewed himself, changing his voice as needed. That led to his TV debut as an announcer, a job to which he brought his own odd sense of humour. Then came New York, no success in TV but spots at night clubs like the Blue Angel and Le Ruban Bleu. This finally took him onto the Jack Paar Show where he was a hit.

Today, The Garry Moore Show, the Steve Allen Show and many others followed. Winters' humour is perhaps unique on TV since it has a macabre quality. It also has a quality of freshness; as one critic said, "It is unusual when you can listen to a comic and not recognize a single word or situation that has been presented here before."

Synge's "Playboy" On Playhouse U.K.

The Playboy of the Western World, by the famous Irish author John Synge, will be seen on Playhouse U.K., this Sunday night. The play, produced by Granada TV, star's a hitherto little-known Irish

"PLAYBOY" CANCELLED

As we went to press it was learned that the sound track and general film quality of "Playboy of the Western World" was too poor for presentation. Scheduled in its place will be "The Cage," a murder mystery by Ken Hoare—the story of a man, his wife, and their pretty maid. This was produced in England by ABC.

girl, the 28-year-old Sligo-born Joan O'Hara, along with an all-Irish cast of 12.

Today, The Playboy of the Western World is recognized as a classic of the Irish theatre. But when it was first seen in Dublin in 1907, its reception gave no hint of its great future. For on its opening night at the Abbey Theatre, Dublin, it was greeted with boos, hisses and jeers. And at the second performance police had to be called in to prevent a riot.

Why? Even the critics had different opinions. Synge used the word "bloody" in the play—seven years before G. B. Shaw—and some said this was partly the reason. Others thought that the theme of the play itself was to blame. There were objections that it labelled the Irish character. Yet others claimed that paid agitators had been planted in the audience to cause a disturbance, for political reasons.

Synge himself merely described "Playboy" as "a piece of life." When he was asked what purpose he had in writing the play, with its strange young "hero" who claims to have murdered his father, Synge replied: "None. I pleased myself in writing it."

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information.

On Safari

This week—"We Capture a Baby Elephant." Armand and Michaela find a baby elephant and take it to their headquarters where it enjoys a mud bath.

Scan

Host Frank Stalley presents a demonstration of a video-tape machine.

The Millionaire

This week—"Ann Griffin." A bride persuades her husband to take her to Hollywood on their honeymoon so that she can try to get him a movie contract. When she is given $1,000,000 she doubles her efforts to make her husband a star, but he has other ideas about how to spend the money.

Joan Fairfax Show

This week Joan's guests are vocalist Ken Steele, jazz pianist Marian McPartland, and the Playboys.

Danny Thomas Show

Comedy series starring Danny Thomas as a New York entertainer. This week—"Dinah Shore Show." Danny meets songstress Dinah Shore.

Cannonball

Canadian film-drama series about a trucker and his family. This week—"Nitro Haul." Mike and Jerry have a blow-out while carrying a load of high explosives. While Mike goes for help, Jerry tries to change the tire and is trapped under the truck cab. The flares die out and traffic comes dangerously close to hitting the transport.

Desilu Playhouse

"Silent Thunder" the story of an American Indian's attempts to attain recognition in a community of white men, based on a screenplay by James Edwards and adapted for television by John McGreevy. Set on a ranch near a small western town in the late 1800's, "Silent Thunder" tells of the mounting prejudice and hatred between the Indian youth (played by John Drew Barrymore) and the ranch-owner's headstrong son (played by Earl Holliman), which finally erupts into violence that threatens to destroy them both. The rancher (played by Barton MacLane) is torn between his sense of justice and his loyalty to his son. Patricia Smith plays the son's wife, and Wallace Ford is cast as a ranch hand sympathetic to the Indian. (Repeat of Dec. 8, 1958 telecast).

CHAB-TV goes on the air

Moose Jaw Makes A Baker's Dozen

From Sioux Lookout, an elevation 17 miles west of and 1,300 feet above the town of Moose Jaw, Indians used to transmit smoke signals.

A new kind of signal—that from a television antenna—is now being transmitted from the same point. Source of the signal is CHAB-TV, Moose Jaw, which went on the air at 10:28 a.m., Tuesday, July 7, after many months of careful planning.

Program listings for the new station are included in this week's CBC Times.

CHAB-TV is the prairies' 13th television station, and there must have been times during the past few months when station officials began to think they should have let someone else become unlucky 13. Inclement weather and delay in receiving some of the building materials had caused some setbacks during construction of the 430-foot tower and 150-foot antenna, but the opening day's programming went smoothly, with good reception reported from viewers over 100 miles away.

First person to appear on camera at CHAB-TV was the station's president, owner and general manager, Jack Moffatt, who spoke for three minutes. His opening remarks were followed by a 15-minute discussion of the first network program to be carried on CHAB-TV—the All-Star Baseball game which followed immediately. Taking part were the station's sports director, Ken Newans; CHAB's sportscaster, Pallie Pascoe; local sports expert Bill Libby; Moose Jaw Baseball Club past-president Jack McGibney; and Regina sports expert Charlie Ald. The group made predictions, and Ken Newans recalled highlights of past All-Star games and showed pictures of the stars. After the game the same group did a 10-minute follow-up on their predictions.

Until August, when it will join the microwave network, CHAB-TV will pick up network programs from CKCK-TV, Regina.

Manager of the station is Sid Boyling, who has been with CHAB radio since 1931. Other officers—Jay Leddy (program director), Merv. Pickford (chief engineer), Jack Johnson (business manager), and Joe Lawlor (sales manager).

At one stand at the Audio Fair in London, where a British manufacturer was demonstrating what are now used instead of valves—little things about the size of split peas called transistors—I saw a man who was quite obviously deaf. He was prepared to buy a new type of deaf-aid equipment for himself. And next to him was a very distinguished government scientist who was interested in the components of rockets that go right out into space.—John Hillaby, on BBC.

HISTORIC CEREMONY

In other words, the company was obligated to pay rent for the vast territory covered in its grant, on any occasion when the ruling monarch should set foot in these western domains. The last time (and only time in 289 years) that this ceremony took place was in 1939, during the visit of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth (now the Queen Mother).

Mr. Ashley Cooper was then Governor of the Hudson's Bay Company, and the payment was made at the old Fort Garry Gate in downtown Winnipeg near the site of the present Fort Garry hotel.

This year the payment will be made again, this time by Mr. W. J. Keswick the present governor, who will come out from England for the ceremony. The ceremony will take place in Assiniboine Park, Winnipeg.

The matched elk heads, taken on Elk Island, Alberta, will be mounted on massive birch shields. The two beaver skins have been chosen from more than 50,000 in the company's Montreal warehouse. Sterling silver plates under the elk heads bear this inscription:

Yielded and paid to Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth the Second by the Governor and Company of Adventurers Trading into Hudson Bay under the terms of their Charter granted by King Charles the Second to their first Governor Prince Rupert 2nd May 1670. Winnipeg, Canada, 24th July, 1959.

London Revisited

Disappointment in London's rebuilding projects and musical activities—new life in her theatre

By BOYD NEEL, Dean, Royal Conservatory of Toronto

LONDON is now being rebuilt in earnest. The first thing one notices here on arrival is the forest of cranes and scaffolding on all sides. The Festival Hall is pretty well hidden in a jungle of girders and the South Bank will have an entirely new look in another year's time. Coming out of the hall after rehearsal the other day, I suddenly remembered that I used to visit my patients on that very spot, when my practice took in much of the South Bank, including the Old Vic. Gone are all the old houses ing that he is in danger, sets out to search for him. John Newland is host.

Chevy Show

Music and comedy with John Raitt, Janet Blair, and their guests.

Command in Battle

Fifth of seven programs on famous battles of World War II, presented by Field Marshall Montgomery. This week—"The Surrender on Luneburg Heath." Field Marshall Montgomery talks about the crossing of the Rhine and race for the Baltic, by which time he was more concerned about the advancing Russians than the stricken Germans. Finally, he describes the German surrender on Luneburg Heath, while films of the ceremony are shown.

The Show That Jack Built

With Jack Shapira and his orchestra and special guests.

Two For Physics

Doctors Donald Ivey and Patterson Hume demonstrate some interesting aspects of physics. Tonight they talk about orbits and atoms.

Royal Visit Review

Lamont Tilden presents highlights of royal tour activities on film.

CBWT—See—Hear!

Filmed summer series produced at CBC Winnipeg by Felix Lazarus. This week—a feature on the joint air training services for the three armed forces at Rivers, Manitoba.

now, and, walking down Waterloo Road, I was reminded of the many times I used to be called to the Old Vic to attend to some casualty—usually on Macbeth nights!

The rebuilding, however, has its tragic side. The architects are apparently trying to make London look like Toronto and, of course, this just won't do. Buildings, which would look superb on University Avenue or Bay Street, look ludicrous with St. Paul's as a background. I cannot think what the effect will be in a few year's time. The beauty of the old buildings will be quite lost when set against the new, and the new will merely look ridiculous against the old. There appears to be no overall scheme—just wild building in any form on any site.

The other thing which strikes the returning visitor is the astonishing renaissance of the London theatre during the past year or two. A couple of years ago the West End stage was artistically moribund. Pretty well the only choice was between farces of stupefying mediocrity and that most vivid of all entertainments, the English "Drawing Room" comedy. But in an amazingly short time all is changed, and there are at least half a dozen superb plays, and another half dozen almost superb, to be seen at present. It all seems to have started with Look Back in Anger, the first night of which, although nobody realized it at the time, may turn out to have been one of the historical dates in the English theatre.

Whether one liked it or not, and I was among the "nots," one can see its influences everywhere. True, the tea cups still clink, but no longer in "Lady Wallingford's drawing room," and they clink to the accompaniment of dialogue which would have made our ancestor's hair curl. And the clink is now more often that of the tumbler than the tea cup. I would not be so foolish as to say that this necessarily means a better play, but it is now, for the first time in two hundred years, completely uninhibited. The hypocritical shackles of "respectability" have, at last, been shaken off. A play like Five Finger Exercise makes up, in one evening, for all the suffering we have endured in the West End since the war.

I wish I could say the same about the musical world, but I can discern little change here. The Beethoven-Tschaikowsky festival, which has been going on ever since the war, is still with us. There is, however, a gleam of hope in the opera houses, where such works as Cherubini's Medea and Poulenc's Carmelites are being given. Callas sang in Medea and so did our Jon Vickers—superbly. The production was that used recently at Dallas, Texas, and an exchange had been arranged with Covent Garden, Dallas, lending its Medea, and London reciprocating with its Lucia. What an excellent ideal! This is something we must think about for the future in Canada if we ever have opera companies established across the country, because it seems a great saving of time and money. Expanding this idea, one might conceive a kind of "Scenery Pool" for the whole of Canada which the Canada Council might one day establish.

Albert's Place

Fun with Albert the puppet, and his friends Bob Clothier, John Chapell and Nonie Stewart. From Vancouver.

Huckleberry Hound

This week - "Little Bird Mouse." Dixie the mouse reads a book about flying and discovers that he can fly. He then has a wonderful time teasing a hungry cat.

Royal Visit

Her Majesty the Queen and Prince Philip visit the Saskatchewan Museum of Natural History in Regina.

Rope Around the Sun

Songs and stories of the Old West, sung and told by Stu Davis. This week Stu tells some camping stories and how to cook a "Bannock on a Bag." Script by Kerry Wood of Red Deer, Alta. Jean Mackay, producer. From Winnipeg.

Walt Disney Presents

This week - "Elfego - Lawman or Gunman." While studying law, Elfego Baca sees a chance to test his mettle as an attorney when he learns of a pseudo-legal scheme to deprive a rancher of his land. Seeking to counsel the rancher, Baca finds the ranch under virtual siege by the cowhands of a would-be land grabber.

Live a Borrowed Life

Anna Cameron, Bill Walker, Elwyn Yost and guest panelist Danica D'Hondt try to guess the identity of a famous person from clues supplied by an amateur expert on that person's life. Charles Templeton is moderator. From Toronto.

orchestra, and guest stars. From New York.

Bat Masterson

Western series starring Gene Barry. This week — "The Romany Knives." Bat, who has saved the life of an old gypsy and been taken to a gypsy camp to receive many valuable gifts, discovers a young girl who had been adopted by the gypsies years before. Bat wants to take her to her own people but the girl wants to stay. When a gypsy discovers that the girl is to inherit $50,000 he tries to kidnap her and claim the money through a forced marriage. To save the girl and himself Bat has to use his wits against the wild gypsies and their Romany knives.

The Unforeseen

"The Three Marked Pennies," a teleplay by Jack Paritz from a story by Mary Elizabeth Counselman. High excitement comes to the sleepy town of Blakesville when posters are mysteriously plastered all over the town announcing an unusual contest which offers "gifts" to the three people who receive three marked pennies that have been put into circulation. The three coins are marked differently (with a square, a circle and a cross), and the three gifts are: $100,000 cash, a trip around the world, and death. The possessors of the coins won't know which coin represents which gift until they receive their prizes. Some of the townsfolk consider the contest to be a practical joke, but others feel it is true. Melwyn Breen, producer. From Toronto.

Close-Up

Fate has to do with events in history that are the summary and unintended results of innumerable decisions of innumerable men. Each of their decisions is minute in consequence and subject to cancellation or reinforcement by other such decisions. There is no link between any one man's intention and the summary result of the innumerable decisions. Events are beyond human decisions: History is made behind men's backs. — C. Wrights Mills, Professor of Sociology at Columbia University, on BBC.

Coming Up on "Close-Up"

— Wednesday nights on CBC-TV —

JULY 22—EVELYN WAUGH

Charles Templeton and a leading British novelist indulge in some fascinating Waughfare . . . a session Templeton calls the most trying of his interviewing career.

JULY 29—BRENDAN BEHAN

In an interview unlike anything ever to occur on "Close-Up," Elaine Grand talks with the disheveled and rebellious Irish writer in his familiar habitat: a pub. Behan's best-selling book, "The Borstal Boy" and hit play, "The Quare Fellow," are based on the experiences of his prison tenures for I.R.A. activities.

AUGUST 5—EGYPT

Intrepid traveller Pierre Berton brings Nasser-land back alive in a special one-hour edition featuring candid commentary and magnificent photography, a combination which highlights his earlier "Close-Up" trip to Moscow.

AUGUST 12—HAN SUYIN

Percy Saltzman interviews the Far East specialist in sex and socialism, author of "A Many-Splendoured Thing." The interview comes from Couchiching, where the lovely and provocative writer is a special speaker this year.

AUGUST 19—REBECCA WEST

One of the world's finest reporters and most interesting women, writer of a penetrating analysis of the treason trials of Lord Haw Haw, is hostess at her English estate to interviewer Charles Templeton.

IN THE FALL . . .

● What is it like to be a Jew? "Close-Up" seeks frank answers from Jewish people in all walks of life. What do they think of Abie-and-Rachel jokes? Why have some of them changed their names? Have they many non-Jewish friends? How bad is the anti-Semitism they run into every day? ● Divorce—a study in penetrating Close-Up of the biggest and unhappiest decision some people have to make, the cheapest, easiest racket for many who make their living from the divorces of others—including legal, clerical, and man-in-the-street opinion on Canadian divorce law. ● Mackenzie King and Senator McCarthy—fresh appraisals of one of Canada's most controversial political figures and the man likely to be remembered as long as fear of Communism, guilt-by-association, and senatorial inquisitions are part of the American lexicon.

PROGRAM NOTES

JULY 23

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information.

Ed and Ross

With Foster the puppet, Ross Snet-singer and folk singer Ed McCurdy.

Woody Woodpecker

This week - "Smoked Hams." Woody works during the day and Wally Walrus works at night, but both live in the same house. Neither of them is able to get much sleep.

Parade

This week—a jazz parade, featuring Count Basie, his full orchestra, and his vocalist, Joe Williams; Peter Appleyard's quartet, augmented by a string section; flutist Moe Koffman, and a singing trio—Lambert, Hendricks, and Ross. From Toronto.

Have Gun, Will Travel

Western series starring Richard Boone as Paladin. This week—"The Sons of Aaron Murdoch." Paladin rides into Arizona territory to "buy off" a fugitive before the outlaw ruins the life of his younger, hero-worshipping brother.

Wyatt Earp

Western series starring Hugh O'Brian. This week - "Pinkytown." Dodge City officials want to annex a nearby shanty town where Doc Holliday runs a faro game and acts as political adviser. Earp tries to break down Doc's resistance to the annexation.

Loretta Young Show

This week—"The Happy Widow." A beautiful widow meets a handsome bachelor aboard ship and a romance flourishes between them. After the boat docks the bachelor begins to

Queen Will Tour Saskatchewan Museum

Pictured above is the exterior of the Saskatchewan Museum of Natural History in Regina which Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth will visit on Thursday, July 23. Saskatchewan government authorities have co-operated with CBC by removing plate glass windows from the display cases to avoid possible reflections on television screens, by installing supplementary lighting, and by drilling holes in the main floor of the Museum to admit CBC radio and television cables. Television coverage of the Queen's visit to the Museum begins at the following times:

Man.-12:15 p.m.

Sask.-11:15 a.m.

Alta.-10:15 a.m.

(Radio coverage begins a half-hour earlier and will include the ceremonies at the Legislative Buildings prior to the departure for the Museum) have doubts about losing his freedom by marriage.

Explorations

This week—"Mother Love." Part two of this three-part series on medicine deals with the effects of mother love on children. Participants in the discussion are Dr. E. J. Rosen and Josephine D. Chaisson.

Montreal Playbill

This week—"Thank You Edmundo."

In Italy in 1945, four peasants quarrel over whether or not the grave of a Canadian soldier should be disturbed so that the land may be used for farming. Cast: Louis Turenne as Edmundo; George Bloomfield as Francesco; Griffith Brewer as Luigi; Gerald Rowan as Gabriel; Philip Neilson as a priest; and Weldon Hanbury as the voice of the dead soldier.

WALLY KOSTER

in Kildonan Park, Wally can count on one thing: that he will be mobbed by autograph collectors. It happens everywhere he goes. In Bellingham, Washington, a gracious old lady asked for his autograph and explained that everybody in her neighbourhood made a habit of watching his Canadian program. In the same state a teenager told him that this had been the biggest week of her summer—autographs from both Wally Koster and Gordon MacRae. Probably the incident that jolted Wally the most was when he stepped off the tow at Banff, some 7,000 feet in the sky. There were three young girls, autograph books poised, waiting for him.

Royal River

Royal River, a documentary film dealing with the current visit of Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip to Canada and the United States for the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway project, will be produced by the National Film Board of Canada and distributed on a world-wide basis by the 20th Century-Fox Film Corporation.

This was announced July 8 in an announcement made jointly by Guy Roberge, chairman of the National Film Board, and Alex Harrison, 20th general sales manager, and Emanuel Silverstone, 20th-International Corporation vice-president.

The film will be released as a three-reel subject in Canada, the United Kingdom and other Commonwealth countries, and in a shorter version in the United States and the rest of the world. Royal River will be filmed in a wide screen process and in colour by De Luxe.

According to the announcement, prints will be available approximately August 1, coinciding with the departure of the Royal Party for Great Britain.

PROGRAM NOTES

JULY 24

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information.

A program of ethnic songs and dances performed before Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip at the grounds of the Legislative Buildings, Winnipeg.

Suspicion

This week—"Protege," with Agnes Moorehead, William Shatner, Phylliss Love and Jack Klugman. A woman strives to make her daughter the great actress that she herself had failed to become. When the daughter falls in love with a young actor the mother determines to get rid of him by placing a real bullet in a gun during a play in which the actor is to be "shot." The mother's scheme doesn't end the way she had anticipated, but has a much happier result for all concerned. Walter Abel is host.

Who Knows?

James Bannerman is moderator as John Lunn, Walter Kenyon, and a guest panelist try to identify unusual subjects from the past and present. From Toronto.

Country Hoedown

Western and country music with Gordie Tapp, the Hames Sisters, Tommy Common, and Johnny Davidson and the Canadian Hoedowners.

Jim Coleman Show

Host Jim Coleman interviews interesting people from the world of sports.

PROGRAM NOTES

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and additional program information.

Davis Cup Tennis

Steve Douglas describes a doubles match between Canada and the winner of a previous Mexico-Australia match. This program originates in Montreal.

Rin Tin Tin

This week — "Yo-o, Rintyl!" Lieut Masters' cavalry unit is trapped atop a high mesa by Geronimo and his band of renegade Apaches. Masters sends Rinty back to the fort for reinforcements. The Apaches spot Rinty and try to kill him, but the brave animal completes his mission.

Errol Flynn Theatre

This week — "The Cellini Cup." With Mai Zetterling and Hugh McDermott. Rival antique dealers from New York meet in London and become involved in a dangerous adventure involving a valuable antique chalice.

Mr. Fix-It

This week — Host Peter Whittall shows how to build a backyard playground for children. He will show various types of equipment, including swings and gym sets.

Ivanhoe

Adventure series based on the novel by Sir Walter Scott. This week—"The Swindler." Peter the Pedlar, a swindler, tricks Gurth into exchanging his money for "gold" ingots. Ivanhoe, shows Gurth that the ingots are actually lead and Gurth sets out to track down the pedlar. Gurth's anger is not as great when he discovers Peter's purpose for swindling.

Swing Easy

Ruth Walker, the Rhythm Pals, and Bill Richards and the orchestra present songs from Brigadoon, currently playing at Music Fair, near Toronto. Guests are dancer Barbara Barlow and vocalist Bruce Doorman.

Perry Presents

With Teresa Brewer, Tony Bennett, and the Four Lads.

Naked City

This week—"Sidewalk Fisherman." A man who makes his living by fishing coins from beneath subway gratings enlists the aid of Lieut Muldoon

Broadcast English

• Just a note of complaint about the speech of Doris Dickson in her Red River Exhibition "Midway" interview on CBW this afternoon (June 27 on This Week). In speaking to the leading performer in a girly show, Miss Dickson asked, "You attempt to move sinewously?" I can't find "sinewously" in the dictionary, and the mental picture of such a performance is rather amusing.—A. L., Winnipeg.

How about "sinuously"?

• This letter is in defence of Stu Davis' speech on his radio program. This person who wrote in has no sense or she would know that Stu wouldn't be on the air if there weren't many people—school teachers too—who thought his programs were wonderful. To this disillusioned schoolmarm all I can say is: you can have your superb diction; I'll take Stu Davis' lingo anytime.—N. D. L., Winnipeg.

• I have listened to Stu Davis for many years—first on radio and in recent years on television. Not once have I taken offence at the mannerisms of speech used. A program such as Stu's Rope Around the Sun is, in my opinion, more educational than if the same material were presented in a classroom. I am sure that the "lingo" he uses in keeping with his characterization will not harm anyone.—Miss D. Newman, Portage la Prairie, Man.

From the Beyond

• Who is the author of those phony Sherlock Holmes stories we see on TV? Not Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, surely! Last week you had Sherlock Holmes quoting a speech made by Sir Winston Churchill on a recent visit to Washington. As Conan Doyle died in 1929 he never heard of this speech, but since he became a spiritualist no doubt he sends these stories to the CBC from the "other side".—H. Nettleton, Winnipeg.

It is true that we seek program material from all sources, but we must

Great Movies

This week—"Night at the Opera." With the Marx Brothers. Groucho, Harpo and Chico carry on their usual madcap antics with the opera as a background.

See—Hear!

• If the first See—Hear! program in the new series produced by Felix Lazarus may be taken as a fair example of the quality and interest of other programs to come then viewers watching CBWT on Tuesday evenings are in for a rare treat. The July 7 program gave us a clear exposition of how a show is produced, from the development of the idea by the script writer all the way through to the actual transmission of sound and picture to our television screens. It was a most revealing half hour full of interesting detail presented in a most interesting way. Good show!—W.J.M., Winnipeg.

From the States

• Thanks for your program tributes to our Fourth of July, which were much appreciated. We always keep one of our radios tuned to your station, and enjoy the Sunday programs particularly. Thanks to you and to radio.—L. G. Stone, Jamestown, N. D.

• I received your station at 12:30 p.m. M.S.T. on June 11. The program was about trading stamps in Canada, followed by a lady doing exercises. I live 24 miles west of Boise, Idaho, and am a member of the American Ionospheric Propagation Association, and organization for the study of TV-DX.—Morris Foote, Middleton, Idaho.

Long Shot

• If you are attempting to discover how low you can go, you have arrived with Long Shot. It is hard to believe that you could sustain a full half hour of such inane, puerile drivel. How anyone even remotely connected with Close-Up could touch such a mess is baffling.—D. G., Winnipeg.

• I would like to thank you for producing the show, Long Shot. It is nice to sit back and enjoy light yet satiric entertainment. Please continue this show—R. G. K., Starbuck, Man.

• Good luck. If this is "sick humour" I am a very ill man! It must have been a great day for Stan Freeberg to breathe the sweet air of a free network. Some people won't like this program and there may be some pressure to draw out its sting. I hope not, and if the standard of Long Shot is maintained it will be a welcome oasis in a desert of "safe" and tasteless fare.—D. A. R., Winnipeg.

MUSIC ON RADIO

By FRANK HAWORTH of Toronto

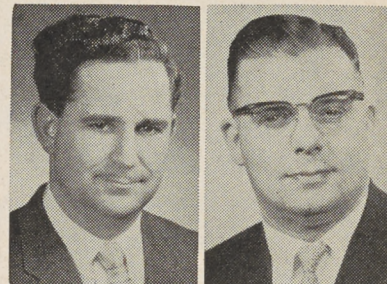

In the week's broadcast music, the smaller forms continue to predominate, with chamber concerts and solo recitals. Sunday's Chamber Music brings us the Bernardi Trio of Toronto in works by Mozart and Schumann. Before this, is the Sunday Morning Recital, positivist organist<sup>o</sup> Bernard Legace of Montreal plays compositions by Gabrieli, Sweelinck, Frescobaldi, Buxtehude, and J. S. Bach. CBC Concert Hall, on Friday night, has Winnipeg flutist Dirk Keetbaas and pianist Chester Duncan in a Bagatelle by Rakov and a Sonata by Prokofieff; and, as though to provide a more robust contrast,

Western Artists on Monday evening presents an unusual program (page 23) by the Kenneth Hopkins Brass Choir and organist Frank Johnson of Edmonton.

As originally understood, chamber music meant any kind of small-scale music making, suitable for private, domestic surroundings, as opposed to public places, especially churches. A favourite distinction was between "camera"—chamber, and "chiesa"—church, as in Sonata da Camera and Sonata da Chiesa (though this, perhaps, was as much a matter of style as of scale). It could, of course, and originally did include any kind of combination, instrumental or vocal, of small numbers, and the "chamber" opera. Indeed, the boundaries of chamber music were probably not very firmly drawn in the beginning.

As time went on, however, the term became restricted to small ensembles of solo instruments (i.e. one to a part) and more especially to the style of music suited to such groups. Foremost among them is the string quartet, the chamber music vehicle par excellence, and some distance behind it comes the piano trio—piano, violin and cello. Because piano tone contrasts, rather than blends, with string tone it is a rather less flexible and tractable medium than the quartet, and calls for a different approach. There are some magnificent examples, like Beethoven's Archduke trio, but not all composers seem equally happy with it. Some tend, for example, to make the string parts mere frills on the piano part, or vice-versa.

Mozart's pre-eminent technical skill and unflinching sense of the appropriate made his piano trios as successful as all his other work, as will be apparent on Sunday when the Bernardi Trio plays his E. Major Trio (K. 542), considered one of the most characteristic of all his chamber compositions. Somewhat less satisfactory in its scoring is Schumann's Fantaisietuecke, the Duett and Finale from which are also on the program; but it contains some delightful music nevertheless, reminiscent of his piano works at their most poetic.

Kenneth Hopkins Frank Johnson
On "Western Artists"

Opposed to the chamber music ideal of a single instrument to each strand of the musical texture, is the conception of the choir — of having each such strand rendered by a group, with the corresponding effect of rich and massive (though not necessarily loud) sound. We usually think of the term in connection with voices, but it is also used of instrumental groups, when similarly constituted—the "string choir" of the symphony orchestra, for example. I have no information about the Kenneth Hopkins Brass Choir, of Edmonton, which is to be heard in the Western Artists

(Please turn to page 29)

I think if we stand back from ourselves a moment, there is no essential difference in the human situation today from what it was before.

We're all up to the knees in a certain kind of heavy mud which we have to get through, and this is part of the whole business of living. —Richard Hoggart, author of "The Uses of Literacy," on BBC.

ZARA NELSOVA

Winnipeg-born 'cellist, plays the Dvorak cello concerto in a Vancouver International Festival broadcast Tuesday night on radio.

<sup>o</sup> "POSITIV ORGAN — originally a stationary organ, as opposed to a 'portative' or portable organ used in processions. Usually used to accompany the choir and thus, when incorporated with the main organ, became known as the 'Choir' in English, and 'Positiv' in French. . . ." ## On "Summer Stage"

"The Fourposter"

Joseph Furst chooses Broadway and Hollywood hit to launch new "Producer's Choice" series

First it was a hit on Broadway and on tour with Jessica Tandy and Canada's Hume Cronyn in starring roles, then in the movies with Rex Harrison and Lilli Palmer.

Now Jan de Hartog's The Fourposter will be presented to the Canadian radio audience as the first of a series of 10 plays chosen and directed by guest producers. The Fourposter will be produced by Joseph Furst, who also directed it at Toronto's Crest Theatre in 1955.

(Coming up on the Producers' Choice series on Summer Stage—Catch My Breath, an amusing whodunit written and directed by Mavor Moore, July 25; Eastward in Eden, variations on the theme of love written by George Whallye and directed by Gordon Babineau, August 2; Naked on a White Horse, written and directed by Alan King, August 9; and a comedy written by and starring Wayne and Shuster directed by Alan Savage, September 13. Others will be announced shortly.)

The Fourposter is a comedy built around episodes in the wedded life of two very appealing people, Agnes and Michael. The story begins on their wedding night, and follows them over 35 years of marriage (1890-1925) until, their children gone to make lives of their own, they leave their home to move into smaller quarters. Their slow arrival at mutual trust and understanding survives such shoals as quarrels about the education and discipline of their children; Michael's attraction to another woman who "understands" him; and Agnes's being smitten by a young man who "appreciates" her. It's essentially a virtuosic piece, an intimate study of two ordinary, likeable people who carry the story entirely by themselves . . . perspective being supplied by the memories of their audience.

Although Jan de Hartog writes charmingly about everyday people,

TRANS-CANADA MATINEE

New Hope for Lepers. When Marjory Whitelaw, a Canadian freelance writer and broadcaster who's been living abroad and touring various countries, first saw a leper, she felt as though she'd gone backward into medieval times. She was reminded of a painting of the "sins and miseries of the world," she said. But new medical research and treatment programs have given the lepers hope which they never had before. In a report from Uganda, Miss Whitelaw describes a visit to a leper settlement at Kulava, in the West Nile district of Uganda, and talks with Dr. Edward Williams and Dr. Peter Williams, who run the mission hospital.

Teapots. When the efficient machinery of the big business world slips a cog, some remarkable things can happen. Norma Jean Beck, a Saskatoon librarian, discovered this one day when a friend sent her the gift of a teapot. Jean Hinds, the CBC's morning commentator in Saskatchewan reports.

Daily Features . . . Today's news commentary is by Muriel Armstrong of Montreal. Winnipeg-born soprano Maxine Miller offers some more songs, and Lister Sinclair reads another excerpt from Ray Bradbury's "Dandelion Wine," the story of a 12-year-old boy's life in the summer. Douglas Spaulding, the hero of the book, lived in a small town in the American mid-west in 1928. He and his younger brother made a pact to record for that whole summer all the things they did as a matter of repeated routine and all the things they learned that were quite new.

Black Chamber Music

The title's a gag, but the program's for people who take their jazz seriously

"WHAT is jazz?" someone once asked trumpeter Louis Armstrong, the celebrated King of Jazz. "Man," he replied, "if you gotta have words, you'll never know." And he was right. Volumes have been written about jazz, its history, how to understand it, etc. It's easy to verbalize intellectually about it. But every serious jazz artist agrees that it's too primitive, too emotional a thing to put into words. Jazz should be enjoyed without thinking about it, and that's how composer - arranger - conductor Michel Perrault hopes listeners will approach his Black Chamber Music series on CBC Dominion and French networks Thursday nights.

Musicians have been jazzing the classics for years, but Perrault and his nine jazzmen are reversing the process. Each week they're presenting serious, classical arrangements of pop tunes, within the melodic and rhythmic framework of jazz. But Perrault emphasizes that this is not juke-box jazz. He hopes to attract some of the long-haired classicists who turn thumbs down on standard interpretations of light music. His music will lean more

POST-NEWS TALK

Miller Stewart, naturalist from Sturgeon Point, Ontario, talks about those heavily towards American jazz than towards Parisian.

Probably you're curious about the significance of the series' title. It was chosen to sound as pretentious as possible, with a gag at the end. The chambre noir is a photographer's dark room, but that isn't indicated until the final word, and listeners hearing the title for the first time are all prepared for some rather stuffy programming until that word noir (black) hits them, and they realize they're in for something different. Perrault aims at a semi-serious style, a la Chamber Music Society of Lower Basin Street, an American radio feature for many years. "I'll state the ridiculous with all seriousness," he says. This will mean running the gamut from written-out arrangements to improvisation, from fugues in classical form to jazz harmonies and melodic subjects treated in a variety of interesting modern ways.

devoted but pungent cottage visitors —skunks. A close observer of animal life, Mr. Stewart will include some anecdotes and figures on this summer's large skunk population in his part of Canada.

Parliament, as its name implies, is a place of talk. A contempt for talk is a sign of contempt for freedom. Autocrats profess to despise and suppress talk because it is a waste of time. But, in fact, if it is so foolish why do they suppress it? Obviously they fear it: and rightly so. It is a great function of the House of Commons to exemplify and defend the importance of talk in public affairs. — Kenneth Wheare, Rector of Exeter College, Oxford University, on BBC.

Laurier

A "portrait from memory" of Canada's first French-speaking prime minister

The life work of Sir Wilfred Laurier can be summarized under three heads: first, there was his determination to ensure religious and political freedom in a Canada harbouring two languages and two faiths; secondly, his struggle to promote national unity, which he saw as the supreme issue; and thirdly, arising from the first two, his desire to see a British Commonwealth of diverse and autonomous nations, united by a common bond.

A Portrait from Memory on CBC Trans-Canada Tuesday morning tells something about this great Canadian Prime Minister — not a formal biography, but a sketch of his career and achievements, based on selected memories of his contemporaries.

Besides memories of him as a national leader, orator and statesman, there are warm personal anecdotes and impressions, like that of his butler, Joseph Mailhot, who remembers him as "not only my employer but the kindest man I ever met."

The program was written in consultation with Professor John T. Saywell of the Department of History, University of Toronto. Elspeth Chisholm and Edward Devlin of the CBC International Service produced it.

TRANS-CANADA MATINEE

Tugboat Annie. A television film crew on location near the Tweed farm outside Toronto caused some interesting and curious reactions among the area's residents. Jean Tweed reports.

A Liverpool Childhood. When Norman Gridgeman was a child, he lived with his family in an ancient house directly across the river from Liverpool. The port city was his favourite holiday visiting-place. Today, Mr. Gridgeman recalls the delights of his childhood pilgrimages to windy, bustling Liverpool.

Three Score Years and Then? In the second program of Matinee's series on older citizens, Elizabeth Mascall examines the employment possibilities open to persons who have reached retirement age. She discusses pensions, and interviews several citizens who are now usefully and happily employed. Mrs. Mascall is a housewife, critic, writer and freelance broadcaster.

"The Devil and Mr. Dryden"

*A fantasy by Hugh Laming, produced in Toronto
by John Reeves*

WITH cool detachment Webster's dictionary defines temptation as "that which tempts," with the all-important codicil "especially to evil." The Reverend John Dryden, a direct descendant of his namesake, the great 17th-century satirist, had often preached on the subject in his parish church of Montreal. Winnipeg-born soprano Maxine Miller offers some more songs, and Lister Sinclair reads another excerpt from Ray Bradbury's "Dandelion Wine." (details in Monday's "Matinee" note).

THE DEVIL AND MR. DRYDEN

A lighthearted fantasy by Hugh Laming concerning a rector who meets the devil. (See story this page).

ORPHEUS IN UNDERWORLD

From the Stratford Festival—Jacques Offenbach's witty operatic parody on the Greek myth about Orpheus who plays his lyre so beautifully that he moves the gods to restore him to his lost Eurydice. His adventures in Hades, where he has gone to reclaim his bride (more through the pressure of public opinion than desire) treat the old legends with such hearty irreverence that the classicists accused Offenbach of "blaspheming sacred and glorious antiquity." The translation by Robert Fulford and James Knight of Toronto, to be used tonight, has retained this saucy disregard for antiquity. "So amusing are the situations in the opera," they say, "that the humour is easily understandable to a modern audience with little or no acquaintance with the legends and myths of ancient Greece." First produced at the Boffes Parisiens in Paris in 1858, the opera had an unprecedented run of 228 consecutive performances.

Tonight's performance will be conducted by Louis Applebaum. Leading singers will be the French baritone Martial Singher, American soprano Irene Jordan, John McCollom, Jan Rubes and Eric House.

in Kent, had waxed eloquent over the larger and more colourful temptations, of which he had so far had little experience. Like most smug people he was fascinated by other people's weaknesses. Then, much to his astonishment, he was visited by the Devil himself, disguised as the head of a large advertising agency, and found he was faced with decisions as grave as any his more shady parishioners had ever battled with.

This urbane and extremely knowledgeable gentleman with the well-hidden horns introduced himself as a Mr. Gideon, and the connotation was enough to make hardier creatures than Mr. Dryden reach for the aspirin bottle. Then with suave assurance he offered the rector the traditional temptations of wealth, wordly power, preferment (he made a Bishop's ring wink tantalizingly in the offing), and like bounties.

What would you have done in the rector's place? It's easy to grin and say you'd have grabbed the lot and run, or to pull a long face and say you'd have sent the old boy packing. But faced with the easy accessibility of all you'd ever dreamed of having and being, what then?

We won't give away the rest of the story, but the solution to Mr. Dryden's temptations turns upon an unexpected literary device in The Devil and Mr. Dryden, which John Reeves will produce this week on CBC Wednesday Night.

It's a lighthearted fantasy by Hugh Laming, an English journalist who, until a few weeks ago, was a senior editor in the CBC radio newsroom in Toronto. Now he's trying his luck in Australia. During the Second World War he served with the British Army in France, Libya, Crete and Italy, and afterwards was a correspond-

In the Garden. There are birds even in a small garden, but perhaps more fascinating are the lovely butterflies and moths. There is, for example, the strange humming-bird hawk-moth that tries to act like a bird and flies about sipping nasturtium nectar. In the second of Matinee's summertime nature series, Kerry Wood of Red Deer, Alberta, talks about such winged creatures, and about the June bug, the mice, and the pocket gophers.

Hormones and Motherhood. This is the last talk in the current informative series on hormones, prepared by Dr. Otto Hohn of Edmonton. In this instalment, Dr. Hohn discusses the two hormones that play a vital role in man's reproductive system—hormones that are absolutely necessary for the propagation of the species homo sapiens.

Daily Features . . . Today's news commentary is by Anne Francis of Ottawa. Jacques Desbaillets plays some more of his favourite recordings, and Lister Sinclair reads another excerpt from Ray Bradbury's "Dandelion Wine." (described in Monday's "Matinee" note).

THE FOURPOSTER

he is far from ordinary himself. The son of an Amsterdam professor of philosophy, he ran away from home at the age of 10 and joined a fishing fleet. When the long arm of parental authority eventually rounded him up, he was enrolled in a naval college, but three months later was dismissed with a note saying "This school is not for pirates." He was heard from next on ocean-going tugboats, where he served until he became a sub inspector with the Amsterdam Harbor Police, aged 18. During the long night watches he wrote to pass the time, drawing on his seagoing experiences.

Some of his stories, published in local papers, reached the attention of the directors of the municipal theatre, who asked him to give some technical advice on a sea play they were rehearsing. That brief taste of the theatre bore fruit in several plays of his own, but his writing career was cut short by the Second World War. He was one of the earliest underground resistance fighters in Holland, was sentenced to death by the Germans, but escaped to England. Now he writes fluently in English—novels, plays, short stories. He's married to the eldest daughter of J. B. Priestly, and at last report was living on a houseboat in Europe.

Joseph Furst, who directs The Fourposter, is a graduate of the University of Vienna, plays 10 musical instruments, sings, speaks fluent German, French and English, and is a gifted fencer and horseman. Before coming to Canada in 1952 he acted in or directed over 600 stage plays in Europe, and made 30 movies in Germany, Switzerland and France. His Canadian career has included dozens of radio, stage, TV and movie appearances in character and straight roles. In the fall he plans to continue his career in Britain.

concert on Monday night, but I assume that it is organized on this principle. Brass instruments lend themselves admirably to this usage, under which they can produce excellent results. The renowned "brass bands" of northern England and elsewhere are in effect brass choirs. The program of the Edmonton group (which is joined by organist Frank Johnson) is as interesting as its constitution; it includes, among other things, a Concerto for Brass Quartet, by Gordon Jacob, and a Concerto for Two Trumpets and Organ, by Vivaldi.

Jazz Festival. This week, there has been a jazz festival in Toronto. From July 22-25, jazz musicians and orchestras from many parts of the continent have congregated at the Canadian National Exhibition grandstand to practise and display their art. Helen McNamara, a writer with the Toronto Telegram, reports on the festival.

Guest of the Month. Michelle Tisseyre is queen of the French television network in Canada. Not long ago a popularity poll chose Mlle. Tisseyre as the woman who had contributed most to television in Quebec. She has two shows, a variety show, "Music Hall," that runs for an hour on Sundays; and "Rendez Vous avec Michell," in which she interviews guests during a Thursday night half-hour. As a TV hostess, she is cultivated, elegantly-gowned (she's one of the 10 best-dressed women in French Canada), and gracious; and her manner of interviewing guests is dis-years ago), and had numerous articles published in Canadian newspapers and periodicals. In an article in the Toronto Globe and Mail a month ago he gave his reason for leaving Canada: "Don't think I'm quitting Canada because Canada has been unkind, unco-operative, uncomfortable or un-profitable. No sir! It's just that old Laming complaint, the wanderlust. I'm near 50 and I want to sniff the tropic night again."

The cast for The Devil and Mr. Dryden includes Gillie Fenwick as the rector; John Bethune as Mr. Gideon, the Devil; Katherine Blake as Chloe, the rector's daughter; Alan King as Admiral Turret, a friend of the rector; and Jill Showell as Primula Salem, Gideon's secretary.

Gillie Fenwick (the "w" is silent), who will play the role of the rector, is another transplanted Englishman who hails from Newcastle.
